

Tidbits from the World Sound Healing Conference

Sometimes life offers you a buffet of inspiration and nurturing. The World Sound Healing Conference in San Francisco last month was such an experience for me. Imagine over 500 people whose passion is healing with sound all under one roof. It was a feast of sound, knowledge, inspiration, discovery and new friends.

Some of the presenters included Masaro Emoto, Jonathan Goldman, Joshua Leeds, Dr. Patrick Flanagan, Dr. Jeffrey Thompson, James Twyman, Tom Kenyon, Don Campbell, Don Estes and many, many more. The power, depth and variety of applications for sound in healing are astounding. So are the people.

As I reviewed page of notes, there were comments that stood out on each page. Here is a sharing of some of the tidbits from this amazing buffet:

"Sound is a multidimensional living entity." Jonathan Goldman (Jonathan discussed the internet as representing the global mind. It is his intention to co-create a global heart through global harmonization. See "Temple of Sacred Sound" on the web site, www.soundhealersassociation.org.)

"The ear is the major sensory stimulator for the body. . . Every cell is a sound resonator. New research indicates that nerves transmit impulses of sound, not electricity. Every cell emits and absorbs sound." Dorinne Davis, www.thedaviscenter.com

"Emotions are vibratory templates that turn DNA on and off." Margaret Ruby

"The ultimate source of all disease is stress. The autonomic function of the parasympathetic system of the body can be manipulated using sound waves. Every material in the universe has its own specific resonant frequency." Dr. Jeffrey Thompson

"Our only job is to teach peace wherever we go and to use words only when necessary." James Twyman quoting St. Francis

"We are all called to be the overtones of humanity. We are raising the fundamental note of humanity." James Twyman

"Music works on multiple levels and multi-sensorial aspects all the time." Don Campbell (Don Campbell is designing audio systems for hospitals that create comfortable sounds for emergency, uplifting sounds for maternity, focusing sounds for admitting, etc. Also see www.mozarteffect.com for links to over 1000 research centers.)

"The higher dimensions exist within you. Sacred geometry is the language related to source (God) in the third dimension. Sound is the language of the fifth dimension that connects to source . . . Emotions work to hold us in the third dimension. The human being has the ability to bring love from source and what is demonstrated is form and pattern. The human being can build the bridge from source to the third dimension. A geometry can shift an environment to flow more with source." Gregory Hoag

"When you get into the heart of the matter, the heart is running the matter. The steps to getting there are the qualities of being there." Randy Masters
